

Technologies for Financial Inclusion
August 29 - 31, 2016

WE are glad to announce the Programme on Technologies for Financial Inclusion, from August 29 – 31, 2016. This is primarily to enhance knowledge on standards for Financial Inclusion. The details of the programme are given below.

Introduction:

Financial Inclusion means extending banking services at an affordable cost to the vast sections of disadvantaged and low-income groups. Financial Inclusion Task Force in the UK has cited three priority areas requiring serious attention: access to banking, access to affordable credit, and access to free face-to-face money advice. The Reserve Bank of India has mandated that banks extend their outreach taking banking service to the common man. Extending banking to the rural areas where there are no bank branches, consistent power supply or communication links such as telephones or Internet is a daunting task. This calls for newer approaches in taking banking to remote regions. One solution that RBI has come up with is to enable customers intermediate banking facilities through business correspondents who act as agents on behalf of banks. As law mandates, any transaction on an account involving cash has to be made within the physical premises of the bank. Instead of opening full-blown brick and mortar bank branches in remote districts (an expensive proposition) it is proposed that with the help of modern information technology and managerial capabilities of business correspondents banking functionalities could be extended to remote regions. It is known that information technology solutions to deliver banking services have been able to reduce transaction costs (e.g., ATMs). Therefore, a technological solution can make Financial Inclusion a reality in India.
